Coaches Highlight the Competitive Value of the NORCECA Women's Final Four 2026

PONCE, Puerto Rico, June 4, 2026 – The Salvador Dijols Coliseum will host the NORCECA Women's Final Four 2026 from June 5 to 7, an event that brings together the national teams of Mexico, Cuba, Costa Rica, and host Puerto Rico in a round-robin format that will determine the new regional champion.

Puerto Rico will compete for its fourth consecutive title in this NORCECA Final Four setting.

The tournament will award valuable points toward the continental and world rankings, reinforcing its importance within NORCECA's international calendar.

The head coaches of each team shared their perspectives on the significance of this competition, emphasizing the value of measuring progress, consolidating systems of play, and exposing their athletes to a high-demand environment in Ponce.

PR Juan Carlos Núñez – Head Coach, Puerto Rico

Juan Carlos Núñez explained that the Puerto Rican squad arrives with an interesting mix of new players and others who will take on roles different from previous years. He noted that, aside from Wilma Rivera—who has led the team and remains a regular starter—and Valeria Vázquez, who played more than half of last season alongside Decelise Champion, the rest of the group will have their first major opportunity on this international stage.

He expressed satisfaction with what he has seen in training and now looks forward to how the team will execute on the court against the incoming opponents.

Regarding the pursuit of a fourth consecutive title, Núñez emphasized that the key will be execution and playing solid volleyball. He recalled that Mexico has been Puerto Rico's toughest rival in recent years, with intense matches and several decided in five sets. He also analyzed Cuba, a team arriving with powerful and physically strong athletes.

Beyond the opponents, he stressed that the most important factor will be how his players handle the environment and the pressure of competing at home. He acknowledged that playing in front of their own fans can bring pressure, but it also provides confidence. He assured that the team will receive his full support to push them and build, from within, the expectations needed to compete at the highest level.

mx Nicola Negro – Head Coach, Mexico

Nicola Negro described that Mexico arrives with the same group that began a new competitive cycle last year, a renewed team that continues its consolidation process. Although some players were unavailable due to physical issues, he noted that this tournament comes early in what will be a long and demanding summer with six total events. For that reason, he views this first competition as an essential part of their preparation.

Regarding the possibility of ending Puerto Rico's streak of three consecutive titles, Negro was clear that although they always compete to win, his priority is to see the team work and evolve according to their plan. He explained that the result will naturally follow their performance. If they play better than the others, they will reach their goal; if not, they will use what they learn as guidance for the rest of the summer. For him, that is the true purpose of the tournament.

cu Lorenzo Martínez Cordero – Delegate, Cuba (Head Coach: Luizomar Moura)

Lorenzo Martínez Cordero explained that Cuba arrives with a team in full development, composed of young athletes who already have some experience in clubs in Europe and the region. Still, he acknowledged that the group's overall experience is limited and that this tournament will serve to evaluate their technical and competitive progress. He stated that their expectations of winning are minimal, but the team is here to fight and make the most of every opportunity.

Martínez Cordero also expressed the team's satisfaction in returning to Puerto Rico after four years. He highlighted the warm treatment they have always received, the excellent competition conditions, and the sense of camaraderie that makes them feel at home.

cr Ciro Zoratti – Head Coach, Costa Rica

Ciro Zoratti shared that he began working with the group only three weeks ago, so he will use this tournament to get to know the players better and make adjustments and experiments. He explained that he had to select the players available to travel, as organizing this type of competition is not easy. He noted that he has a very young team and that they are beginning a long-term development process.

Regarding the possibility of returning to the podium, Zoratti avoided comparisons with previous editions, noting that each season brings different teams. He acknowledged the strength of the opponents —Mexico, Cuba, and Puerto Rico— and stated that he does not want to pressure his group with medal expectations. His focus is for the players to compete with their best volleyball; whatever happens afterward will be welcomed as part of their growth process.

Entrenadores destacan el valor competitivo del Final Four Femenino NORCECA 2026

PONCE, Puerto Rico, 4 de junio de 2026.— El Coliseo Salvador Dijols será, del 5 al 7 de junio, la sede del Final Four Femenino NORCECA 2026, un evento que reúne a las selecciones nacionales de México, Cuba, Costa Rica y el anfitrión Puerto Rico en un formato de todos contra todos que definirá al nuevo monarca regional.

Puerto Rico va por su cuarto título consecutivo en este tipo de escenario, el NORCECA Final Four Femenino.

El torneo otorgará importantes puntos para los rankings continental y mundial, reforzando la importancia del certamen dentro del calendario internacional de NORCECA.

Los entrenadores principales de cada equipo explican la importancia de este torneo en las siguientes declaraciones, destacando el valor de medir progreso, consolidar sistemas de juego y exponer a sus atletas a un escenario de alta exigencia en territorio ponceño.

PR Juan Carlos Núñez – Entrenador de Puerto Rico

Juan Carlos Núñez explicó que la selección puertorriqueña llega al torneo con una mezcla interesante de jugadoras nuevas y otras que asumirán un rol distinto al de años anteriores. Señaló que, salvo Wilma Rivera —quien ha comandado el equipo y se mantiene como regular— y Valeria Vázquez, que jugó más de la mitad del año pasado junto a Decelise Champion, el resto del grupo tendrá su primera gran oportunidad en este escenario internacional.

Aseguró sentirse complacido con lo visto en los entrenamientos y ahora espera ver cómo el equipo puede ejecutar en cancha ante los rivales presentes.

Sobre la búsqueda del cuarto título consecutivo, Núñez destacó que la clave será ejecutar y jugar buen voleibol. Recordó que México ha sido el rival más fuerte en los últimos años, con partidos intensos y varios definidos en cinco parciales. También analizó a Cuba, un equipo que llega con jugadoras de fuerza y potencia.

Más allá del rival, enfatizó que lo más importante será cómo sus jugadoras manejan el escenario y la presión de jugar en casa. Reconoció que competir frente a su gente puede traer presión, pero también brinda confianza. Aseguró que recibirán todo su apoyo para empujarlas y crear, desde adentro, las expectativas necesarias para competir al máximo nivel.

mx Nicola Negro – Entrenador de México

Nicola Negro describió que México llega con el mismo grupo con el que inició un nuevo ciclo el año pasado, un equipo renovado que continúa su proceso de consolidación. Aunque algunas jugadoras no pudieron estar disponibles por razones físicas, el entrenador señaló que este torneo llega temprano en un verano que será largo y exigente, con seis eventos en total. Por eso, considera esta primera competencia como parte esencial del proceso de preparación.

Sobre la posibilidad de romper la racha de tres títulos consecutivos de Puerto Rico, Negro fue claro en que, aunque siempre compiten para ganar, su prioridad es ver al equipo trabajar y evolucionar según el plan establecido. Explicó que el resultado será una consecuencia natural del rendimiento. Si juegan mejor que los demás, alcanzarán el objetivo; si no, utilizarán lo aprendido como guía para el resto del verano. Para él, ese es el verdadero propósito del torneo.

cu Lorenzo Martínez Cordero – Delegado de Cuba (Dirigente: Luizomar Moura)

Lorenzo Martínez Cordero explicó que Cuba llega con un equipo en plena preparación, compuesto por atletas jóvenes que ya cuentan con cierta experiencia en clubes de Europa y de la región. Aun así, reconoció que la experiencia general del grupo no es muy grande y que este torneo servirá para evaluar su desarrollo técnico y competitivo. Afirmó que las aspiraciones de ganar son mínimas, pero que el equipo viene a luchar y a aprovechar cada oportunidad.

Martínez Cordero expresó además la satisfacción del equipo por regresar a Puerto Rico después de cuatro años. Destacó el buen trato que siempre han recibido, las excelentes condiciones de competencia y el ambiente de hermandad que los hace sentir como en casa.

cr Ciro Zoratti – Entrenador de Costa Rica

Ciro Zoratti relató que apenas comenzó a trabajar con el grupo hace tres semanas, por lo que utilizará este torneo para conocer mejor a las jugadoras y realizar algunos ajustes y experimentos. Explicó que debió seleccionar a las jugadoras disponibles para viajar, ya que organizar este tipo de competencia no es sencillo. Señaló que cuenta con un equipo muy joven y que están iniciando un proceso de trabajo a largo plazo.

Sobre la posibilidad de regresar al podio, Zoratti evitó comparaciones con ediciones anteriores, recordando que cada temporada los equipos cambian. Reconoció la fortaleza de los rivales —México, Cuba y Puerto Rico— y afirmó que no quiere presionar al grupo con metas de medallas. Su enfoque es que las jugadoras compitan con su mejor voleibol; lo que ocurra después será bien recibido dentro del proceso de crecimiento que están construyendo.
