Coaches talk about their teams ahead of the Women's U21 Pan American Cup

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 6, 2026 – A total of eight national teams completed the preliminary inspection and credentialing process on Monday ahead of the 2026 NORCECA Women's U21 Pan American Cup, which will take place from July 7 to 12 at the Covelli Center in Columbus, Ohio.

The United States enters the tournament seeking its fourth consecutive title in a competition that also features Canada, Mexico, Venezuela, Belize, Costa Rica, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the Dominican Republic.

In addition to awarding NORCECA Ranking points toward qualification for the 2027 Continental Championship, the tournament will also serve as part of the qualification pathway to the 2028 FIVB U21 Women's World Championship.

The coaches of the eight participating teams shared their thoughts on their squads during the preliminary inquiry.

Raphael Isaac, U.S. Virgin Islands coach: "We are a young team with players who lack experience, so I hope this will be a strong tournament to help prepare us, especially for Costa Rica next week. I also hope the players continue to improve as the tournament progresses."

Tama Miyashiro, United States coach: "One of the advantages of hosting a tournament like this is playing in front of our home crowd while continuing to contribute to the growth of the sport. We'll also face teams we don't play very often, so I'm excited to see how we perform, especially since this group hasn't been together for very long. I think success will depend on which team adapts the quickest during the preliminary round."

Alexandre Ceccato, Dominican Republic coach: "Our expectation is to continue developing these young players, so they gain valuable experience for future competitions while trying to play the best tournament possible."

Nelissa Ramírez, Belize coach: "To be honest, I'm very proud of how far we've come. We've been practicing twice a day from Monday through Friday, so our expectations are high because the girls have worked incredibly hard, and we hope to have a great tournament."

Ciro Zoratti, Costa Rica coach: "This is my first tournament with the U21 team. We've only had two training sessions before this event, so I see this as a long-term project. There are strong teams here, and we'll have to give everything we have, but I hope the girls perform well on the court."

Iván Márquez, Venezuela coach: "We come into the tournament with high expectations. We know this is a unique opportunity for some of these girls to represent our country, especially considering the current situation back home. That gives us even more motivation to perform well and bring some joy to our people."

Eduardo Murguía, Mexico coach: "We are highly motivated and eager to begin this Pan American Cup. We've been placed in a very competitive pool with Canada, the United States, and Venezuela, so we'll do our best to finish as high as possible in the standings and then see how the knockout stage unfolds."

Matthew Krueger, Canada coach: "I'm excited about the tournament. I have a group that has been with me for the past four years—this is my second cycle with them—so I want to see how much they've grown under my guidance. The competition promises to be fierce, and we want to put in the best performance possible."

Entrenadores comentan sobre sus equipos de cara a la Copa Panamericana Femenina Sub-21

COLUMBUS, Ohio, 6 de julio de 2026.- Un total de ocho selecciones nacionales completaron este lunes el proceso de inspección preliminar y acreditación de cara a la Copa Panamericana Femenina Sub-21 de NORCECA 2026, que se celebrará del 7 al 12 de julio en el Covelli Center de Columbus, Ohio.

Estados Unidos llega al torneo en busca de su cuarto título consecutivo en una competencia en la que también participarán Canadá, México, Venezuela, Belice, Costa Rica, Islas Vírgenes Estadounidenses y República Dominicana.

Además de otorgar puntos para el Ranking NORCECA, válidos para la clasificación al Campeonato Continental de 2027, el torneo también servirá como parte de la ruta de clasificación al Campeonato Mundial Femenino Sub-21 de la FIVB de 2028.

Los entrenadores de las ocho selecciones participantes compartieron sus impresiones sobre sus equipos durante las inspecciones preliminares.

Raphael Isaac, entrenador de Islas Vírgenes Estadounidenses: "Somos un equipo joven con jugadoras que aún no tienen suficiente experiencia, así que espero que este sea un torneo exigente que nos ayude a prepararnos, especialmente para Costa Rica la próxima semana. También espero que las jugadoras vayan elevando su nivel conforme avance el torneo."

Tama Miyashiro, entrenadora de Estados Unidos: "Creo que una de las ventajas de organizar un torneo como este es jugar ante nuestra afición y seguir aportando al crecimiento del deporte. Además, enfrentaremos a equipos con los que no jugamos con frecuencia, así que tengo muchas ganas de ver cómo nos desempeñamos, considerando que este grupo lleva poco tiempo entrenando junto. Pienso que el éxito dependerá de qué equipo logre adaptarse más rápido durante la fase preliminar."

Alexandre Ceccato, entrenador de República Dominicana: "Nuestras expectativas son seguir desarrollando a estas jóvenes para que continúen adquiriendo experiencia de cara a futuras competiciones y tratar de realizar el mejor torneo posible."

Nelissa Ramírez, entrenadora de Belice: "Para ser honesta, estoy muy orgullosa de lo lejos que hemos llegado. Hemos entrenado dos veces al día, de lunes a viernes, así que nuestras expectativas son altas porque las muchachas han trabajado muy duro y esperamos tener un gran torneo."

Ciro Zoratti, entrenador de Costa Rica: "Este es mi primer torneo con el equipo Sub-21. Solo hemos realizado dos entrenamientos antes de este evento, así que lo considero un proyecto a largo plazo. Hay equipos muy fuertes y tendremos que dar nuestro máximo esfuerzo, pero espero que las muchachas hagan un buen papel en la cancha."

Iván Márquez, entrenador de Venezuela: "Venimos al torneo con grandes expectativas. Sabemos que para algunas de estas jugadoras es una oportunidad única de representar a nuestro país, especialmente por la situación que vivimos actualmente. Eso nos da una motivación adicional para hacer un buen papel y llevar un poco de alegría a nuestra gente."

Eduardo Murguía, entrenador de México: "Venimos muy motivados y con muchas ganas de comenzar esta Copa Panamericana. Nos tocó un grupo muy competitivo con Canadá, Estados Unidos y Venezuela, así que haremos nuestro trabajo para terminar lo más arriba posible en la clasificación del grupo y luego afrontar los cruces."

Matthew Krueger, entrenador de Canadá: "Estoy muy emocionado por el torneo. Tengo un grupo que ha estado conmigo durante los últimos cuatro años; este es mi segundo ciclo con ellas, así que quiero ver cuánto han crecido bajo mi dirección. La competencia promete ser muy exigente y queremos ofrecer el mejor desempeño posible."
